SANDDRAGGING, GOUGING — HI-JACKING?

If folks along the east coast of Palm Beach County want to have their County School Board knuckle to Labor Unions it's a matter of their integrity and posterity, but Glades folks are not complacent in their belief that an honest day's work be given for an honest day's wages, without concern to race, creed or "jining" cards.

Perhaps that belief stems from the fact that Glades production comes from the soil.

When a Glades painter offers to do maintenance painting for the School Board at a considerable saving to the Board, and is told that he might have a job "if he joins the Union," it indicates who is telling whom that to do when and how.

In all reasonableness, Glades painters should be allowed to do the maintenance work on Glades schools, without forcing them to belong to the Union, if they're qualified.

According to Senator McClellan's remarks concerning evidence of 29 work stoppages at the missile plant at Canaveral, which are avowed to "clearly violate the intent of the State Constitution," "if that is not gouging, if that is not sand-bagging, if that is not blackmail, if that is not hi-jacking, if that is not a form of robbery — I simply do not know what these terms are —"

Further, the Senator says "against a government and against a people," and "I do not know whether the American people will wake up to it or not."

We're informed that if the painters union becomes displeased "it will shut down all our work in the county."

Did you vote for your School Board members with the idea that they would allow labor unions to dictate?

We suggest that Labor Unions and School Boards give this matter serious thought, for actions to date are not based on common sense, nor on equity — and we are reliably advised NOT on existing laws in the State.

What A College Education Means To Me

By Linda Atkinson

An obvious and immediate answer to the meaning of college education would be a higher paying, easier occupation, or what is popularly termed "a white collar job." Yet, I think this answer is superficial and not truly indicative of the meaning of a college education to a great deal of young people, and this situation is certainly true in my case.

One of the most important objectives of education is self-improvement. In the United States today it is ridiculous to think that anyone could fail willfully to take advantage of the educational opportunities this country offers. Yet there are people who have not yet learned that improving oneself is more than a privilege. It is an obligation, an obligation to better our way of life by improving ourselves for the generations that are to follow.

It is true that our educational system has proved inadequate. One has only to observe the unrest and uncertainty of our times to verify this inadequacy. It is my belief that an improved educational system is the solution to one of the greatest problems man has yet had to face, the problem of sustaining the American ideal of freedom in the face of Communist propaganda that threatens the extinction of that ideal of freedom.

Force is not the answer. Nuclear weapons have bred fear and mistrust and inspired only hatred in the human mind. Education is the only answer, and education begins with the individual.

Perhaps I have given some inkling of what an education means to me. Education is the means by which I intend to at least attempt to do my part in making this world a better world in which to live for myself and the generations to come.

Uncle Dan From Democrat River

Dear Mister Editor:

Bug Hookum come by my ton, house Sunday night to set for a spell and do a little lamenting. In all the years I've known Bug, they ain't nothing that has gone to suit him. He was claiming- ing Sunday night that farm prices will git worse and worse and he figgers maybe he'd sell out and move to some big city and git hisself a job in a factory.

I tried to cheer him up, told him things was about as good out here as they was anywhere, that in the end things break out and he'd be back here where he'd git hisself a job in a factory. Bug allowed as how he'd took note of that fact too. Fer instant, he said he'd observed that the rich and the pore git about the same amount of ice, the rich gitting it in the summertime and the pore in the winter.

When Bug gits to lamenting real good he's mighty hard to cheer up. I changed directions and told him he ought to set down and write his Congressman all about his problems. He said he'd tried that both under the Old Frontier and the New Frontier and gits about the same results. He claims Congressmen ain't got but two remedies fer anything and both of them is bad. They either pass a law or appoint a committee, and if the law ain't bad, the committee is stacked. Anyhow, says Bug, he ain't had no reply to the last two letters he sent to Washing-

I wouldn't doubt it, Mister Editor. When a Congressman don't answer a letter from a rancher or a farmer it's on account of him never gitting the letter. I reckon a secretary sorts out the mail and none of them knows the difference between a hay-rake and a silo. A farmer can git to be a Congressman, but the farm ain't never produced a Congressman's secretary. A heap of Congressmen brags about how they has walked behind a mule from sun up to sun set, but you never heard that kind of talk from one of their secretaries.

It ain't knowed too much around the community, but Bug's real name is Thomas Jefferson Hookum, and I think the trouble started right there. Some parents give their kids distinguished names hoping it'll make 'em turn out right, but you'll note from time to time that we got a heap of George Washingtons and Thomas Jeffersons in the penitentiary. The first boy should be named fer his Pa, the first girl fer her Ma. Of course, when they git up to 12 or 14 kids like in the old days, the parents might have to branch out a bit, but I don't see no excuse for branching out all the way to Thomas Jefferson like they done with Bug. Incidental, Mister Editor, my middle name is Smith, which accounts fer me turning out so good.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Dan

Hymn Singing's Universal Appeal Shared By Young & Old

Hymn singing has personal meaning for every American churchgoer. It has brought comfort and inspiration to millions of Americans. Many others find it a wonderful way to express their faith. Still others sing hymns every day for the warm feeling of love and brotherhood it gives them.

But churchgoers in a little town in New Jersey found hymn singing a moving experience which brought numbers of every church together for a community hymn sing one Sunday evening last May.

More than 6,500 people sang the hymns they loved best with Bill McVey, the Christian Herald Singer. They sang "The Old Rugged Cross," "How Great Thou Art," "Abide With Me," "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," and dozens of other hymns they had named in a local survey.

Young and old — 5,000 strong — gathered in the Phillipsburg, N. J., high school stadium and another 1,500 people sang in the parking lot. They joined a 150-voice local choir, composed of members of just above every church choir in Phillipsburg.

Baptists, Lutherans, Methodists, Presbyterians — members of every Protestant church in Phillipsburg, sang together, expressing their faith in song and discovering that hymns have deep personal meaning that hold true for members of every denomination.

The Phillipsburg Council of Churches had invited Bill McVey, who has held hymn sings in churches and towns of all sizes across the country, to conduct a community hymn sing open to everyone regardless of religious affiliation, as the major event on the New Jersey town's Religious Heritage Day.

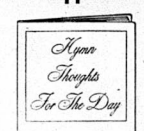

A local layman and civic leader volunteered to lead the committee, which included housewives of every faith who asked to help type programs and song sheets for the hymn sing. Every Protestant minister urged his congregation to attend and preached on the benefits of hymn singing on a family and community — wide basis. Ministers also inserted notices in their church newsletters.

The local newspaper, (The Express) and radio stations carried news stories and features on the hymn sing.

The last week before the hymn sing, it rained. But the skies cleared on May 28 and the choir gathered in the stadium to hold its only rehearsal with baritone McVey and the organist, Ashley Miller of Radio City Music Hall.

McVey and Christian Herald have received a flood of letters and cards from Phillipsburg churchgoers who shared the rich, heartwarming experience of singing their favorite hymns and gospel songs with their families and friends.

Phillipsburg citizens were especially enthusiastic about singing the hymns they selected. The Council of Churches and Christian Herald conducted a local survey and almost 1,000 people voted for the hymns they

Miss Adams Is Bride Of Ray Prescott

MR. AND MRS. RAY PRESCOTT Photo by Averill

Community Methodist Church, Belle Glade, was the setting for the Sunday afternoon wedding of Miss Sandra Ann Adams to Ray Prescott. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan A. Adams of Pahokee; the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Annie L. Prescott and the late W. D. Prescott of Belle Glade.

The altar decorated with two baskets of white gladioli and muscades formed the background for the double-ring ceremony, performed by the Reverend Lee D. Rustin. Traditional wedding music was presented by Miss Till McIlwain and Brown Settelring soloist sang "Give Us This Day" on "Jesus I Have Promised," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length dress of white tulle, featuring a round neckline and long sleeves cuffed, and a full skirt gathered at the hem. The length veil fell from a tiara of pearls and sequins and her only jewelry was a strand of pearls. She carried a bouquet of white sweethearts roses.

Miss Karen Adams was her sister's maid of honor. Her ice blue dress of nylon chiffon tulle was fashioned with a full gathered skirt and deep hem. The bodice with round neckline, puffed sleeves, was belted and bowed at the waist line. Her matching headpiece was a big blue bow and she carried a bouquet of pink sweethearts roses.

Miss Lois Kay Adams was Junior bridesmaid for her sister in a dress and head piece matching the maid of honor. Her bouquet was of pink carnations. The bride made all the dresses and hats for the wedding.

Ralph Prescott of Miami was his brother's best man. Ushers were John Adams of West Palm Beach, Bill Brock of Miami and W. O. Prescott, brother of the groom.

County Tax Roll Loses 87 Millions Low Assessments

EXCEPTIONS:

These cars could deliver top performance with only 8 of Super Shell's 9 ingredients. But they'll soon need the ninth. Do you know why?

If car engines could stay clean as new, they'd get along fine without Shell's TCP additive. But harmful deposits start building up the moment your car leaves the showroom—and can soon cut power and mileage. TCP works to keep that from happening. Here's how.

THE ENGINE of every car on the road has combustion chamber deposits. Nothing can top them from forming. They're the inevitable result of combustion.

If your car has only a couple of thousand miles on it you probably won't know the deposits are there. But once they're built up, they can be rough on performance. Fortunately, something can be done about that. Shell's TCP additive does it.

How deposits cause trouble
Here's what can happen inside your engine. When certain types of deposits get hot enough, they can beat spark plugs to the punch and ignite the fuel themselves.

These premature explosions are forms of pre-ignition. They give your pistons a terrific hammering. Your power falls off. And so does your mileage.

Instead of purring smoothly, your engine falters—and costs you money.

How TCP prevents trouble
New, improved TCP in today's Super Shell gasoline literally alters these combustion chamber deposits. It "fireproofs" them so they no longer glow red-hot.

Result: top performance. And as a little extra, new improved TCP can help spark plugs last up to twice as long.

NOTE: TCP can improve the performance of many older cars. Tests have shown that it helps restore power lost to harmful combustion deposits—and can add up to 17 miles per gallon.

9-ingredient formula
TCP is just one of Super Shell's nine ingredients. To get an idea of how all nine contribute to top performance, run your eye over the list at the right.

And try a couple of tankfuls yourself. If you do it soon, you'll get Super Shell's Hot Weather Blend. It's specially formulated to give your car top performance in summer. And that's a reassuring thing to know when you're out driving on a sizzling day.

Super Shell's 9 ingredients for top performance

- #1 is TCP—for power, mileage, and longer plug life.
- #2 is Pentane mix—for fast warm-ups.
- #3 is anti-knock mix—for knock resistance.
- #4 is Alkylate to control "high-speed knock."
- #5 is Butane—for quick starts.
- #6 is "cat-cracked" gasoline—for power.
- #7 is an "anti-icer." Added when cold weather sets in.
- #8 is gum preventive—for clean carburetors.
- #9 is Plateformate for extra mileage.

*Research for Shell's unique gasoline additives. Gasoline containing TCP is approved by U.S. Patent 2,889,812.
